

2007 Environmental Program Series

'Greening' Your Home: Tips for Saving Money and the Environment

Wednesday, Feb. 7 from 7–9 p.m.
Fort Collins Senior Center, 1200 Raintree Dr.
(Pre-registration is not necessary for this free program)

Join this innovative presentation from local and regional experts to learn how to save money while reducing your household's greenhouse gas emissions.

Guest speaker Diane Dandeneau, executive director of ConservED Project and Colorado Interfaith Power & Light, will discuss Living Lighter on the Planet and how to measure and reduce your environmental impact by integrating personal values with practical actions. An emphasis will be placed on what steps you can take now that will have the biggest impact—and that individual actions can make a difference.

Ms. Dandeneau's diverse background includes working in renewable energy, consulting in oil and gas, and training with Al Gore on the nationally acclaimed Climate Project, inspired from Gore's movie An Inconvenient Truth.

Other topics include tips to make your household more efficient by:

- conserving energy and water;
- reducing vehicle trips; and
- shrinking trash bills through recycling and solid waste reduction.

Refreshments and door prizes provided.
